33rd Tallahassee Model Train Show as Big as Ever! BBMRA Sold Out its Vendor Space for Second Straight Year

From Sam Miller:

We have come a long way from the Elks Club, the National Guard Armory for a couple of years and now to two buildings at the Leon County Fairgrounds and over about 35 years. John Sullenberger was once the heart of the annual BBMRA model train show. Andy Zimmerman and a handful of others lead the initiative now, with overwhelming support from club members.

The 33rd Tallahassee Annual Model Railroad Show & Sale is upon us – Saturday, June 22, and Sunday, June 23. The 166 tables set aside for sales were scooped up by mid-May and Andy had several vendors on a waiting list. This year, there are more than three dozen folks with model and proto-railroading merchandise, including a professional quilter, plus several other craft vendors. There are almost a dozen operating layouts, including seven-point-five scale miles of N Scale T-Traks, which will be one of the largest assembled at any show.

The Tallahassee show now is one of the largest and best attended in Florida, South Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi. I have sold at half-a-dozen shows this year and this is bigger in terms of vendors and layouts than events in Dothan, Pensacola and Mobile, although those are fine, fun shows, and on par with Deland and the Villages near Leesburg.

There are 166 tables of new and used model trains of all scales and related inventory; and a more balanced mix of N, HO, O and G than in the past. You are going to find a lot to buy, and remember, as Barrett Johnson has repeatedly told the Large-Scale Sunday Group, model trains "are not a need-based hobby!"

The show features on Saturday four of the quarterly workshops from the NMRA Sunshine Region Northern Division. ND Superintendent Bob Feuerstein, a member of our club, and Andy Zimmerman have made this a regular part of the Tallahassee show. This year the focus in on 3D Printing – Setting Up Your Prints for Success – by Logan Zimmerman.

John Sullenberger would be proud and many of the organizers of our small early shows at the Elks Club would be amazed – although not John, who always recognized the potential ahead of us.

BBMRA N Scalers Hosting 7.5 Scale Miles of N Scale T-Traks – one of the Largest Set-Ups in the Country

From BBMRA Vice President Stacey Elliott:

This year's T-Trak layout will be built on 31 eight-foot tables. On these tables we will have approximately seven-point-five scale miles of track. We're welcoming eight participants from as far away as Kentucky and Texas.

Several of them are bringing their own modules to include in our show including Jaime Valdez's incredible wood trestle and Craig Lang's gorgeous West Virginia themed scenery.

Also included will be Andy Zimmerman's crossing module which tends to be amusing for many of the spectators as they await a crash - which has only happened a couple of times in the last three to four years.

It will be worth anyone's time just to follow a train around and take it all in. If you have N Scale trains and would like to run them, bring them to the show and we should be able to work you in as there is enough room for as many as six trains!

BBMRA Layout Set-Up Notes

See the division coordinators (shown above) for additional details.

HO (From HO Division Coordinator Phil Weston): The HO Division will be using the same two layouts that were operated during last year's show. Members should bring all of their modules including the large and original size corners. We'll be setting up starting about 12: p.m. Friday, June 21, so try to get your modules at the Fairgrounds by that time so that we can begin assembling the layouts. I plan to be at the Fairgrounds by 8 a.m. in case anyone needs to drop off their modules early. I'll have diagrams of the layouts and where each module should be located. Please bring whatever support supplies or tools that might be needed for the layouts. Thank you!

See you soon, this is the BIG ONE that we've been waiting for! If you need anything or have questions please send me a note, text or call. phil.weston2@gmail.com N Scale: More details later, but Stacey Elliott says folks will begin work Friday morning at 9, assembling the N Scale T-Traks in Building 2.

Large Scale: LS Coordinator Sam Miller says his group will unload the O Gauge T-Traks and Disney Thursday afternoon, June 20, at 2 p.m. Doug Gyuricsko will help us set up the T-Trak frames. The rest of the work on Disney and the O Gauge T-Traks is Friday morning beginning at 9 a.m. Please get your inserts to the Fairgrounds Friday morning or deliver them to Sam at his house earlier in the week.

Ron Fletcher may unload the Garden Railroad layout Thursday afternoon. Randy Lombardo will set up Thomas the Tank Engine Friday afternoon.

Brooksville Professional Quilter has Special Railroading Themes

From Sam Miller:

It may be the first in the 33 iterations of BBMRA's annual Tallahassee model train show – a professional quilter who crafts using railroad cross bucks and other railroad themes. She is Lauren Jackson, of Bold Notion Quilting in Brooksville. Lauren is BBMRA President Andy Zimmerman's daughter.

My daughter, Lily Shettle, my 13-year-old granddaughter, Bleakley Shettle, and Lily's mom, Sarah Bleakley all are quilters. They have seen Lauren's videos and monitored her Internet site and are very excited about the chance to meet her. I have heard from other quilters now that word is spreading that Bold Notions Quilting will be part of our show.

Lauren agreed to provide some thoughts on railroading and quilting and about her activities generally:

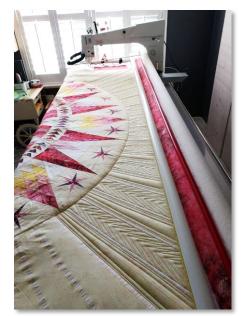

"Railroading isn't a typical theme I work with. Train-themed fabrics are really scarce. My dad is Andy Zimmerman and I know he loves this show so I thought I would come and vend and show my support. I didn't realize things had to be railroad themed until he told me last month, so I whipped up some of my famous Therapeutic Flax Seed Bags and had so much left over fabric I decided to whip up a few quilts too. I made a railroad crossing raffle quilt that will be fun to do and give people a chance at winning something of greater value for just a few raffle tickets.

"I love quilting on my giant 12-foot longarm quilting machine and I feel like there is a correlation in mixed media arts. You all are creatively engineering your models to create functional 4D art and sewing shares that synergy!

"I have met so many ladies in my quilt shop whose husbands do model railroading so I thought it would be fun to vend a train show, with some sewn items. I will have my longarm there and I will be quilting during the show so I can share the love of sewing with others. (I'll probably be quilting another train-themed quilt.)

"What I spend the most time doing is custom quilting. That's my happy place. I get to make creative and functional layouts for the quilts provided to me.

"I find joy in teaching others how to do the textured quilting on my website on BoldNotionQuilting.com. It's my favorite thing to do. I share tutorials on YouTube for free and have a multifaceted quilt shop both in person and online with tons of sewing fabrics and notions.

"I started quilting about nine years ago and started my online website around the same time. As a military spouse it was important to build a business I could take with me from station to station. I used to work as a retail manager so running my shop is second nature.

"As a longarm quilter, something we often do is make t-shirt quilts. It could be with train shirts, or marathon shirts. This is a service we provide to a few people a year. I have a class on my website that shows people how to create them with confidence!" This vendor will be located in building 2.

A Bag For Hope

By: Neal Meadows, Ed.D.

Another new vendor this year is this group of women who sew items for sale and donate the proceeds to the Hope Community.

A Bag For HOPE has for 15 years sewn bags and more with proceeds supporting the children at HOPE. This awesome project has raised close to $150,000. Projects they started includes the basketball court and the playground as well as a new program helping families to move into stable housing. We thank you! Here CEO Nick Maddox does a behind-the-scenes tour of the renovations underway at HOPE with some of the Bag for HOPE

This is the first year that A Bag For HOPE will participate in BBMRA's Annual Show & Sale. They are all excited about this new venture. The members have been busy making various sewn products using train related fabrics for sale at the show. A popular item is the potato bag that you use in the microwave to cook a potato really fast. Designed using train themed fabric will make it even better tasting for all of us railroaders. There is even a BBQ apron that has been styled for a grilling railroader! A handy trash bag for our vehicle is another find. This vendor will be located in building 4.

Texas Train Worx, Edward Flaugher, Waller, TX: Custom Model Train Painting.

We asked our new vendors to send in something about themselves. We heard from Edward:

"I've been a model railroad enthusiast for more than 40 years and have been in the area of custom painting in model railroading for more than 30 years. Throughout that time, I've painted a wide variety of roads and schemes on models in a broad range of scales.

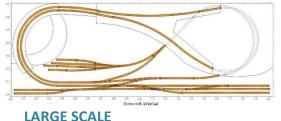

"I have experience working with brass and plastic models and have worked with items from multiple manufacturers. The mission of my small business, Texas Train Worx, is to provide quality craftsmanship that will allow you to enjoy your personal model railroading experience for many years to come.

"A funny thing happened on the way to a train show... A train show that had been held near Ft. Worth the last few years decided to change their dates, so I took this opportunity to look for another train show in June -- an opportunity to go somewhere new and grow the business. My wife found your show, the Tallahassee Model Railroad Show, and we are both very excited to come to Tallahassee to meet new people, make new friends, and advertise my custom painting services."

Lifetime Model Railroader in Lionel O Scale - by Gary Edwards

Edited by Neal Meadows, Ed.D.

BBMRA hosted the Spring Layout Tour with four different hosting sites. I provided some article information and pictures of those layouts in the April and May Lanterns. I had so many pictures I could not get them all in one issue. Gary Edwards layout pictures were in the May issue. Gary sent this background information after I sent out the May Lantern. I thought it should be published in the June issue so you would know how long he has been a Lionel fan.

Gary states: First started with Lionel trains at age 3 (1950) with an 027 Lionel Scout steam train set that my dad gave me at that Christmas. My dad was impressed with how well I took care of that train so 2 years later he bought a Union Pacific diesel passenger train set.

I have been assembling my train set as a young person from ages 3 through about age 15- mostly by my dad buying a new accessory or other item each Christmas and I would add to that. After getting into N gauge for a few years due to limited space (about 40 years ago) and I had neglected my Lionel O gauge for decades until I retired & decided to get them out from storage and then added the trains I admired as a kid, but my dad could not afford, the Santa Fe F3 diesel passenger set and PRR 610 Steam turbine 6-8-6 locomotive.

My current layout initially took about 3 months to build but I have spent a lot more time changing it and adding to it over the last 6 years.

I also purchased a working replica of the PRR suburban commuter trains (2 car set) that are exactly like the ones I used to ride from Paoli PA into center city Philadelphia when I was a kid. I also purchased a Lionel Lion Chief Hudson steam engine that has more modern sounds and a remote control that my grandson loves to run.

My accessories include: log and barrel loaders, crossing gates, operating signal bridge, flashing crossing lights, automatic gateman and switch tower, operating freight station, operating beacon lights, a SEPTA trolley (replica of ones in Philadelphia), lighted village of Plasticville buildings, Lionel street lights, and lighted billboard, and even a Noma talking station. 90% of my layout consists of items that are over 60 years old, and everything operates as Lionel designed it to do. I especially enjoy showing off my trains in the dark as the lights of the trains, passenger cars, and the village glow brightly in that setting.

What is especially unique about my layout is that my diesel passenger train disappears inside the mountain and waits until the steam driven freight train emerges from the same mountain before reappearing again from out of the mountain. Gary Edwards
